

Dynamic Force Resistant Anchor Frame Construction

When heavy service loads or high dynamic loads develop during a test floor plates need to be anchored using a high-force resistant anchor frame and high alloy, pre-tensioned anchors. This anchor scheme will guarantee you that the anchoring will hold even after years and years of heavy service live. The anchor frame consists of vertical steel pipes holding the anchor and horizontal connectors linking the pipes together rigidly resembling the layout of the holes in the plate field.

